The American Academy for Cerebral Palsy and Developmental Medicine scholarship program supports the mission of the AACPDM to improve the health and general status of children and adults with cerebral palsy, developmental disorders and childhood acquired disabilities through:

- Increasing awareness, understanding, respect for, and communication between the multiple disciplines dedicated to improving the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of those with cerebral palsy and other childhood onset disabilities.
- Providing and supporting educational programs, supporting medical research, and promoting the exchange of information across all country, social and economic barriers.
- Supporting development of expert clinicians and researchers in the fields of cerebral palsy and other childhood onset disabilities
- Impacting all areas of the world through sharing of information and the “teaching of teachers” concept.
- Promoting evidence based medical decision making.

Candidates should consider these objectives carefully before applying and be prepared to explain in an essay how attending the next AACPDM meeting will support the program objectives.

The International Affairs Committee seeks out applicants who are highly motivated, currently in clinical practice, and who are in a position that will enable them to disseminate knowledge acquired at the meeting to others in their home country once they return. Scholarship applicants must be current AACPDM members or applicants. Particular emphasis is placed on assisting those from areas with under supported medical systems and limited financial resources. If you receive an International Travel Scholarship to attend the upcoming meeting you will be expected to do or participate in the following:

- Attend programs organized by the International Affairs Committee on your behalf.
- Attend all general sessions and instructional courses.
- Respond to all Academy and International Affairs Committee communications as requested, in a timely manner.
- Be prepared to discuss health care provision within your own country and facility, so we may also learn from you.
- Maintain communication with your International Affairs host before and during the meeting.
- Complete a survey questionnaire, within two months of returning home, as well as follow-up survey one (1) year after, including a report regarding the outcome of goal/s set after attending the meeting.
